Dear [REDACTED]

RE: MOUNT CLAREMONT COMMUNITY NETWORK AND GRAYLANDS REDEVELOPMENT

Thank you for your recent correspondence regarding the Graylands redevelopment.

The Chief Psychiatrist is not a planning agency; the role is responsible for overseeing standards of treatment and care in the mental health system. Part of that responsibility includes the authorisation of mental health services, ensuring that they are fit to provide the requisite standards of treatment and care once the facility is built.

This authorisation process does not intersect with site selection.

The Mental Health Commission and the Department of Health are the key agencies involved in planning mental health services. Matters relating to mental health service planning and development would be best referred to those agencies.

Kind regards

Dr Emma Crampin
A/CHIEF PSYCHIATRIST
